

Meet Scott

Home Manager Sandylee House, Staffordshire

About Scott

Scott has worked in social care for more than 25 years, supporting people in a range of adult CQC registered services. His main specialism is supporting people with learning disabilities, communication needs and associated health conditions, which has been a key focus throughout most of his career. He has spent around 10 years as a CQC Registered Service Manager, including more than three years leading the team at Sandylee House with Achieve together. Scott is passionate about helping people build confidence, enjoy new experiences and feel connected to those around them.

He has supported people to socialise in ways that suit them, from taking part in local activities to building friendships. He also has experience supporting people into volunteering, from completing applications to offering daily support in their role.

"Helping people feel confident, connected and part of their local area is something I am passionate about."

Scott's key skills

- Learning disabilities support

"I feel proud of the loyalty I have shown throughout my career, having worked for only two employers in care."

Scott's person-centred approach

Person-centred care is important to Scott and guides how he supports people. He believes everyone should feel listened to, respected and involved in decisions about their care.

Scott once supported a person during palliative care, making sure her wishes stayed central throughout. This included supporting her choice to remain in the place she had called home for more than 15 years. Working closely with her family and healthcare professionals, Scott helped ensure she was supported with dignity, care and in a way that reflected what mattered most to her.
