What makes this home unique:

At Applegate House, the people we support are encouraged to enjoy active, fulfilling lives and take part in activities that matter to them. The team encourages everyone to explore their interests, build confidence and try new things at their own pace. The people we support can enjoy local events, days out, time in the garden, celebrations and everyday activities around the home.

There are also opportunities to volunteer and take on small roles locally, helping to build skills and gain a sense of accomplishment. Applegate House also has its own historic air raid shelter, adding character to the setting and offering a great talking point about the home's story.

Location:

Applegate House is in the heart of Barton-upon-Humber, a lively town with a welcoming local feel. The home is a short distance from supermarkets, the library, the leisure centre, pubs, restaurants and Baysgarth Park, giving plenty of choice of places to visit. Local events, including the summer carnival, Christmas markets and annual Bike Night, offer more opportunities to enjoy the area.

The home also has good public transport links, with regular buses to Hull and nearby towns, as well as a local train station. Applegate House has a good relationship with the nearby GP surgery, and a nurse practitioner visits weekly.

"I have worked in the care sector for nearly 20 years, and I cannot imagine doing anything else. Seeing the people we support make progress in their lives and achieve their goals gives me an enormous sense of pride and satisfaction. I also enjoy leading a team who work with the same values, knowing that we all make a difference."
